

Copyright 2008

GOD

Holds the copyrights to this information

Duplication in part or whole is encouraged by

Christian Leaders Assembly

We are only a tool GOD has chosen to provide this information

Front cover designed by:

Christian Leaders Assembly

under GOD's supervision

Personal presentations concerning this material are available in your area!

See the inside back cover of this book for more information.

Call or e-mail us at :

Christian Leaders Assembly

www.cl-academy.org

254-289-0994

501-259-1607

Contents

Acknowledgments.....	iii
Introduction.....	iv
1. The Learning Environment.....	1-1
2. The Mark of the Beast.....	2-13
3. The 144,000.....	3-25
4. The Resurrections.....	4-35
5. Melchisedec and Jesus.....	5-45
6. True Conversion.....	6-57
7. The Spirit.....	7-67
Epilogue “Book of Hebrews Translation”	79
Appendix.....	99
Scripture References.....	103
Seminars and Contact Information	inside back cover

Acknowledgments

Jesus said to His disciples that it was for them to know the mysteries of the Kingdom of God, but for the rest it was hidden (Mat. 13:10-11). Only God can reveal to the human mind the true purpose of mankind (John 6:44). We acknowledge our Father in heaven as the source and inspiration of this book! All praise and honor belongs to Him. All those who have worked on this book have willingly allowed themselves to be used as “tools” in the hand of our Father. The following individuals wish to give God praise and thanks for the pleasure of working together under the influence of His Spirit to make this book a reality! We welcome challenges to the views presented in this book. We are dedicated to the “pursuit of truth.” If we are presented with “Biblical” proof on any subject that sheds light on God’s plan of salvation, we will readily change our views in this “pursuit of truth.”

Barker, Lila

Harrell, Laura

Brasier, Candy

Harrell, Marta

Brasier, Esther

Jarvis, Betty

Brasier, Faith

Jarvis, D.D

Brasier, Harry

Morrison, Daniel

Calvert, Howard

Stefek, Ashley

Carpenter, Rocky

Stefek, Billy

Harrell, Alfie

Stefek, Heather

Harrell, Alfred

Stefek, Julie

Harrell, Cathleen

Introduction

We make decisions every day of our lives. Most of these decisions are in the category of small matters. We decide what we will have for breakfast, what we will wear, and many other matters that will make up our decisions for the day. We think of ourselves as having options. These options can give us the illusion of being free!

A few decades ago psychology was dominated by academics who believed “free will” was an illusion. The followers of “Freud” believed we were all captives of early childhood experiences. These early childhood experiences were the unconscious drives that motivated our behaviors. The supporters of “Binet” saw us all as prisoners of I.Q. Under this view we are all locked into our destiny at birth. The thinking of “B.F. Skinner” modeled human behavior on the behavior of the rats that could be manipulated through physical mechanisms of positive and negative reinforcement. The result would be feed me, shock me, and I will do whatever you say! In all these theories of human behavior by the “experts” there is no true freedom!

Albert Einstein wrote, “Everything is determined, the beginning as well as the end, by forces over which we have no control. It is determined for the insect as well as for the star. Human beings, vegetables, or cosmic dust, we all dance to a mysterious tune, intoned in the distance by an invisible player.” Einstein’s approach to life left everything that happens in our lives to fate. He was not alone in his thinking. The following quotes seem to echo his point of view.

“All things are produced by fate.”—Chrysippus

“Fate leads the willing, and drags the unwilling.”—Cleanthes

There were others, however, who had an opposing view. Their views held out hope for improving one's life. William James, 19th century psychologist, was a firm believer in free will. He believed we could change our lives by changing our thoughts. This view point gave us the ability to make a difference in our lives. An individual who could determine the outcome of their life had the potential of making a positive influence in society. The following quotes reflect this area of thinking.

“Men at some times are masters of their fates”—Shakespeare

“For man is man and master of his fate”—Tennyson

“Men are not prisoners of fate, but only prisoners of their own minds”—Franklin Roosevelt

“The glory of human nature lies in our seeming capacity to exercise conscious control of our own destiny”—Winston Churchill

We praise people for good deeds and blame them for bad deeds. Praise and blame would not make any sense unless people have real choices. If we are a victim of fate, the result of our lives and choices are totally out of our control. Almost everyone has bought into the concept of fate or predestination to some degree. The belief in fate determining events in your life can be so subtle that it is totally unnoticed. Do you ever use any of these phrases?

“What will be, will be”

“It is out of my hands”

“It is all in the cards”

“Who am I to change destiny”

“I’m just a victim of circumstances”

All of these phrases have a subtle influence in the way you perform in life. Why would Satan want us to embrace the concept of fate or predestination? A person who accepts any form of a set fate limits their capacity to excel. God will never accept someone into His Family who holds back (Rev. 3:15:16). We can make a positive difference in our lives. God wants our lives filled with zeal and positive changes (I Cor, 14:12, II Cor. 9:2). He will get involved with our lives if we can only free ourselves from the shackles of self doubt and doom imposed by Satan’s subtle philosophies. Without freedom there can be no morality. Attitudes of regret and pride presuppose free will! You are a “work” in progress. You do have actual choices! This book is about you achieving true freedom from the deceit of this world’s false concepts. The knowledge of God’s plan of salvation brings true wisdom. To actively apply this knowledge in your life brings true freedom (John 8:32)!